Dear [REDACTED]:

Heartland Bank is writing to make you aware of an email data security incident that may have involved some of your information. This letter explains the incident, measures we have taken, and some steps you may consider taking.

We have completed an investigation of suspicious activity associated with certain employee email accounts. Upon identifying that activity, we immediately took steps to secure the email accounts and began our investigation. The investigation determined that an unauthorized person may have accessed the email accounts between October 31, 2024, and November 9, 2024. While we have no direct evidence that any of your personal information was taken or used, we reviewed the messages and attachments that the unauthorized actor interacted with to identify whether they contained personal information, and, on January 9, 2025, determined that one or more contained your name and financial account number ending in ([REDACTED]). This incident involved only unauthorized access to certain employees' email accounts. This incident did not involve access to any other bank systems, no customer account balances were accessed, and no funds were transferred or attempted to be transferred.

We apologize for any concern or inconvenience this incident may cause. We have and will continue to take steps to enhance the security of our email environment. If you have any questions about this incident, please call Heartland Bank at 402-759-8300, Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Central, excluding some major U.S. holidays.

Fraud Alerts and Credit or Security Freezes:

Fraud Alerts: There are two types of general fraud alerts you can place on your credit report to put your creditors on notice that you may be a victim of fraud—an initial alert and an extended alert. You may ask that an initial fraud alert be placed on your credit report if you suspect you have been, or are about to be, a victim of identity theft. An initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for one year. You may have an extended alert placed on your credit report if you have already been a victim of identity theft with the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years.

To place a fraud alert on your credit reports, contact one of the nationwide credit bureaus. A fraud alert is free. The credit bureau you contact must tell the other two, and all three will place an alert on their versions of your report.

For those in the military who want to protect their credit while deployed, an Active Duty Military Fraud Alert lasts for one year and can be renewed for the length of your deployment. The credit bureaus will also take you off their marketing lists for pre-screened credit card offers for two years, unless you ask them not to.

Credit or Security Freezes: You have the right to put a credit freeze, also known as a security freeze, on your credit file, free of charge, which makes it more difficult for identity thieves to open new accounts in your name. That is because most creditors need to see your credit report before they approve a new account. If they cannot see your report, they may not extend the credit.

How do I place a freeze on my credit reports? There is no fee to place or lift a security freeze. Unlike a fraud alert, you must separately place a security freeze on your credit file at each credit reporting company. For information and instructions to place a security freeze, contact each of the credit reporting agencies at the addresses below:

- Equifax Security Freeze, PO Box 105788, Atlanta, GA 30348, www.equifax.com
- Experian Security Freeze, PO Box 9554, Allen, TX 75013, www.experian.com
- TransUnion Security Freeze, PO Box 2000, Chester, PA 19016, www.transunion.com

You will need to supply your name, address, date of birth, Social Security number and other personal information.

After receiving your freeze request, each credit bureau will provide you with a unique PIN (personal identification number) or password. Keep the PIN or password in a safe place. You will need it if you choose to lift the freeze.

How do I lift a freeze? A freeze remains in place until you ask the credit bureau to temporarily lift it or remove it altogether. If the request is made online or by phone, a credit bureau must lift a freeze within one hour. If the request is made by mail, then the bureau must lift the freeze no later than three business days after getting your request.

If you opt for a temporary lift because you are applying for credit or a job, and you can find out which credit bureau the business will contact for your file, you can save some time by lifting the freeze only at that particular credit bureau. Otherwise, you need to make the request with all three credit bureaus.
