Dear<<FIRST_NAME>> <<LAST_NAME>>:

On October 17, 2016, we became aware of an issue regarding a systematic disbursement to alternate payee instructions that are maintained on your brokerage account. Ameriprise Financial was instructed to provide your Social Security number as an identification on this disbursement(s) to a person or entity. As an example, a payee could have been the US Treasury or a state tax agency.

Due to a set up error, this identifying information was included in the address section printed on the check, which caused your Social Security number to be visible in the window of the envelope. To protect you and your information:

- If you have active arrangement(s), we will correct your alternate payee instructions to ensure the identifying information is not visible in the window of the envelope. We will remove the original arrangement and establish a new arrangement. You will receive a confirmation for the new arrangement.
- If you have inactive arrangement(s), we will remove the arrangement(s) from our system. You will not receive any additional notifications.

Because of the sensitive nature of the information visible in the window of the envelope, we are notifying you of this incident and the steps we have taken to protect your account(s). We have instructed our service associates to use extra caution when verifying callers and to confirm the signature on written requests related to your accounts.

As a precaution, Ameriprise Financial is providing you an opportunity to enroll in an independently operated credit monitoring program for one year at no expense to you. This program is administered by Equifax, one of the three national credit reporting agencies. Equifax Credit Watch will provide you with an "early warning system" which alerts you to any changes to your credit file. The last page of this letter includes the features of the Equifax Service and the promotional code you need to use to enroll for one free year of coverage.

I recommend you take the following actions to help protect against the potential misuse of your personal information such as:

- Thoroughly review your account statements and transaction confirmations.
- Review any solicitations you receive in the near future.
- Closely monitor all of your personal accounts (e.g. checking and savings, credit cards, etc) to make sure there is no unauthorized activity.
- Read the enclosed educational brochure which provides resources and measures to help protect against identity theft.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact us. We're here to help.

- Contact your financial advisor, or
- Call us at 800.862.7919, and ask for "Brokerage Trades." Representatives are available Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Central time.

Please accept my sincere apology regarding this situation and any inconvenience it may cause you. We value you as a client and look forward to continuing to serve you.

Sincerely,

Mike Pszybylski
Vice-President - Clearing

Directions for placing a Fraud Alert

A fraud alert is a consumer statement added to your credit report. This statement alerts creditors of possible fraudulent activity within your report as well as requests that they contact you prior to establishing any accounts in your name. Once the fraud alert is added to your credit report, all creditors should contact you prior to establishing any account in your name. To place a fraud alert on your credit file, visit: www.fraudalerts.equifax.com or you may contact the Equifax auto fraud line at 1-877-478-7625, and follow the simple prompts. Once the fraud alert has been placed with Equifax, a notification will be sent to the other two credit reporting agencies, Experian and Trans Union, on your behalf.

How does identity theft happen?

- Dumpster Diving
 Humming through trash looking for bills or other documents with personal information — your name, address, phone number, utility service account numbers, credit card numbers and your Social Security number.
- Phishing
 Phone calls, spam emails or pop-up messages where criminals impersonate financial institutions or companies to persuade you to reveal personal information. For example, you may receive an email asking you to "update" or "confirm" your information and direct you to a website that looks identical to the legitimate organization's site. The phishing site is a phony site designed to trick you into divulging your personal information so the operators can steal your identity.
- If you believe a message to be phishing, forward it to spam@uce.gov and the legitimate company impersonated in the email. For any phishing email impersonating Ameriprise Financial, please send your message to anti.fraud@ampr.com.
- Social Engineering
 The misuse of a legitimate business by calling or sending e-mails that attempt to trick you into revealing personal information. For example, someone calls pretending to offer you a job and asks for your personal information, such as your Social Security number to see if you "qualify" for the position.
- Theft
 Stealing or finding lost wallets and purses, as well as mail items such as bank and credit card statements, pre-approved credit offers, new checks or tax information. Thieves may also work for businesses, medical offices or government agencies, and steal information on the job.

Reduce your risk of identity theft

What is Identity Theft?

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your name or personal information, such as your Social Security number, license, credit card, to open or use other account numbers, without your permission. Identity thieves use this information to open credit, bank and telephone service accounts, and make major purchases or withdrawals — all in your name. If found out, they can be sued to take over your existing accounts or open new accounts. Identity theft can result in damage to your credit rating and damage to credit and job offers. It can happen to anyone. You can take steps to help protect the damages and restore your good name.

Protect your identity

- Keep your information private. Before disclosing any personal information, ensure you know why it is required and how it will be used.
 - Don't respond to email, text or phone messages that ask for personal information. Legitimate companies don't ask for information this way. Delete the message.
- Guard your Social Security number. Do not give your Social Security number to people or companies you do not know.
 - Request to see a privacy policy. A legitimate business requesting your Social Security number should have a privacy policy explaining why personal information is collected, how it's used, and who will have access to it.
- Destroy old documents. Shred information you no longer need that contains personally identifiable information and account numbers. For example, credit card receipts, billing statements and pre-approved credit offers should be shredded before you discard them.
- Safeguard your mail from theft. Promptly remove incoming mail from your mailbox or consider a locking mailbox, and place outgoing mail in post office collection boxes.
- Carry only the essentials. Do not carry extra credit cards, your birth certificate, passport or your Social Security card with you, except when necessary.
- Review your credit report. The law requires the three major credit bureaus — Equifax, Experian and TransUnion — to provide a free copy of your credit report once per year.
 - Visit annualcreditreport.com or call 1.877.322.8228 to order your free credit reports each year.
 - Consider staggering your credit report requests from each agency throughout the year. Look for inquiries and activity on your accounts that you can't explain.
- Review your statements. Carefully and promptly review all transaction confirmations, account statements and reports. Regularly review your account(s) by logging into the secure site at www.ameriprise.com. If you suspect or encounter any unauthorized activity on your Ameriprise Financial accounts, call your personal financial advisor or contact Client Service at 1.800.862.7919.

Protect yourself online

- Be wary of any unsolicited emails and offers that seem too good to be true. Never click on a link sent in an unsolicited email.
- If you are in doubt, don't reply. Call the institution at a known number.
- Use only secure websites when entering personal information or making online purchases. Secure websites can be recognized by the prefix <https://> and a padlock icon in the status bar of the web browser.
- Avoid accessing your financial accounts online from public computers at libraries, hotel business centers or airports. These are prime target areas for thieves using keytrotic monitoring tools to steal your usernames and passwords.
- Create unique passwords and personal identification numbers (PINs) using letters, characters and numbers.
- Use firewalls, anti-spyware and anti-virus software to protect your home computer and regularly update these programs.
- Educate yourself. There are educational materials about many of the online scams at onguardonline.gov.
- Limit the personal information you make public on social media sites, including information about leaving for vacation or information about your routines.

Red flags of identity theft

- Unauthorized charges on your bank, credit card or other accounts
- Mistakes on the explanation of medical benefits from your health plan
- Your regular bills and account statements don't arrive on time
- Bills or collection notices for products or services you never received
- Calls from debt collectors about debts that don't belong to you
- You are turned down unexpectedly for a loan or a job

What to do if you are the victim of identity theft

- If you discover that someone has used your personal information to open accounts or pursue unauthorized activity:
 - Contact a credit bureau. Inform one of the three major credit bureaus that you are a victim of identity theft.
 - Place a freeze on your credit report. Consider a credit monitoring service.
 - Contact your other financial institutions. They may be able to provide additional security measures to protect your account. Close any accounts you suspect are fraudulent or have fraudulent transactions.
 - File a police report. Identity theft is a crime and most creditors require a law enforcement report as proof of the theft.
 - Report the crime to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). Your report will aid law enforcement officials across the country in their investigations.
 - Seek assistance. The FTC has created an identity theft information packet to assist victims. Request a packet via the contact options below:
 - Web: ftc.gov/idtheft
 - Phone: 1.877.ID.THEFT (438.4338) or TTY 1.866.653.4261
 - File a claim with your insurance carrier. Check your policy or carrier to determine if you have identity theft insurance protection. If applicable, consider filing a claim.
 - Keep a record of your contacts. Start a file with copies of your credit reports, the police report, copies of disputed bills and any correspondence. Keep a log of your conversations with creditors, law enforcement officials and other relevant parties. Follow up all phone calls in writing and send correspondence via certified mail, return receipt requested.

What to do if your personal information is lost or stolen

- Contact one of the three major credit bureaus and request that a "fraud alert" is placed on your file. The alert instructs creditors to verify your identity via phone before opening any new accounts or making changes to your existing accounts.
