Dear ██████████,

We are writing to notify you of a cyber security incident at Aquiline Capital Partners LLC (Aquiline).

What Happened?

On January 28, 2019 Aquiline identified an unauthorized login into an employee’s email account by someone who had set up specific mail rules to auto-forward emails containing certain key words. Upon identifying this unauthorized access, Aquiline immediately shut down the mailbox and, in consultation with external cyber security experts, conducted a comprehensive investigation into the incident which determined that, while 50 emails had been forwarded, none of those emails contained social security numbers, account numbers, or any other Personal Identifying Information (“PII”). This forensic investigation included a thorough analysis of all messages and documents contained in the mailbox at the time of the incident. Even though none of your PII was in the emails forwarded outside of the impacted email account, we are notifying you in an abundance of caution because some of your PII was present in other (non-forwarded) emails contained in this email account.

What Information Was Involved?

Aquiline’s investigation could not confirm what information, if any, was actually viewed by the unauthorized individual(s). However, we were able to determine that only 50 emails had been forwarded from the impacted email account and that none of those forwarded emails contained PII. Additionally, we confirmed that no other documents or applications on Aquiline servers were accessed.

What We Are Doing?

Aquiline is committed to information privacy and cybersecurity. Aquiline has long had comprehensive security measures in place to protect information in our care. Upon learning of this incident, Aquiline took several additional measures to further enhance the security of our systems, including employee email accounts. Aquiline regularly assesses our policies and procedures relating to data security to ensure that we maintain sufficient cybersecurity protection.

What Can You Do?

You have the right to place a “security freeze” on your credit report, which will prohibit a consumer reporting agency from releasing information in your credit report without your express authorization. The security freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a security freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, you cannot be charged to place or lift a security freeze on your credit report. Should you wish to place a security freeze, please contact the major consumer reporting agencies listed below:

In order to request a security freeze, you will need to provide the following information:

1. Your full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. If you have moved in the past five (5) years, provide the addresses where you have lived over the prior five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;

As an alternative to a security freeze, you have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on your file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any one of the agencies listed below:
