Notice of Data Breach
Important Information
Please Review Carefully

<<Date>>

Dear <<Name 1>> :

Aven Financial, Inc. (“Aven”) is committed to protecting the personal information we collect and maintain. We are writing to notify you of a data security incident that may have involved some of your personal information. We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause you. While we have no evidence that any personal information was compromised, we wanted to inform you of this event out of an abundance of caution. This notice explains the incident, measures we have taken, and some steps you may consider taking in response.

Aven was recently informed by a security researcher that he was able to access an internal, in-development storage system containing personal information, through a temporary vulnerability in that system. Aven took immediate steps to secure that system. Below is the timeline of events:

- On July 17, 2023, a security researcher gained unauthorized access to that system, and within 45 minutes, informed Aven of this vulnerability
- Within 45 minutes of learning of this vulnerability, on that same day, Aven remediated and eliminated the risk of future access through that vulnerability
- We determined that the only person to access the vulnerability was the security researcher, who is actively cooperating with Aven

We have taken further steps to heighten the security of your information and our systems, including the launch of a bug bounty program to continuously identify risks as part of Aven’s security research program.

We are always committed to maintaining the privacy and security of personal information. Please see below for responses to frequently asked questions.

What Happened?

On July 17, 2023, Aven was informed by a third-party security researcher who is affiliated with a well-known security research platform that he was able to access an in-development storage system containing personal information. Aven remediated and eliminated the vulnerability within 45 minutes of learning of it. We are thankful that the security researcher disclosed this promptly.

What Information was Involved?

Information that may have been involved includes your name, SSN, date of birth, and other information. No passwords were accessed as part of this incident.

What We Are Doing.

Our immediate investigation established that the security researcher was the only person to access these files; no other unauthorized person accessed the data. Although we eliminated that risk within 45 minutes of learning of this vulnerability from the researcher, we continue to always invest in additional technical safeguards to prevent future incidents.

What You Can Do.

While no passwords were accessed as part of this incident, cybersecurity experts recommend changing passwords every 90 days. Consider placing a Fraud Alert and/or Security Freeze on your credit files, and applying multi-factor authentication on your financial accounts. Additionally, you should always remain vigilant in reviewing your financial account statements and credit reports for fraudulent or irregular activity on a regular basis.

– OTHER IMPORTANT INFORMATION –

Placing a Fraud Alert on Your Credit File.

We recommend that you place an initial one-year “Fraud Alert” on your credit files, at no charge. A fraud alert tells creditors to contact you personally before they open any new accounts. To place a fraud alert, call any one of the three major credit bureaus at the numbers listed below. As soon as one credit bureau confirms your fraud alert, they will notify the others.

Equifax

P.O. Box 105069
Atlanta, GA 30348-5069
<https://www.equifax.com/personal/credit-report-services/credit-fraud-alerts/>
(800) 525-6285

Experian

P.O. Box 9554
Allen, TX 75013
<https://www.experian.com/fraud/center.html>
(888) 397-3742

TransUnion

Fraud Victim Assistance Department
P.O. Box 2000
Chester, PA 19016-2000

(800) 680-7289

Consider Placing a Security Freeze on Your Credit File.

If you are very concerned about becoming a victim of fraud or identity theft, you may request a “Security Freeze” be placed on your credit file, at no charge. A security freeze prohibits, with certain specific exceptions, the consumer reporting agencies from releasing your credit report or any information from it without your express authorization. You may place a security freeze on your credit report by contacting all three national credit reporting companies using the information below and following the stated directions, or by sending a request in writing, by mail, again to all three credit reporting companies:

Equifax Security Freeze

P.O. Box 105788
Atlanta, GA 30348-5788
<https://www.equifax.com/personal/credit-report-services/credit-freeze/>
(888)-298-0045

Experian Security Freeze

P.O. Box 9554
Allen, TX 75013
<http://experian.com/freeze>
(888) 397-3742

TransUnion Security Freeze

P.O. Box 160
Woodlyn, PA 19094
<https://www.transunion.com/credit-freeze>
(888) 909-8872

In order to place the security freeze, you’ll need to supply your name, address, DOB, SSN and other personal information. After receiving your freeze request, each credit reporting company will send you a confirmation letter containing a unique PIN (personal identification number) or password. Keep the PIN or password in a safe place. You will need it if you choose to lift the freeze.

If your personal information has been used to file a false tax return, to open an account or to attempt to open an account in your name or to commit fraud or other crimes against you, you may file a police report in the City in which you currently reside.

If you do place a security freeze prior to enrolling in the credit protection services as described above, you will need to remove the freeze in order to sign up for the credit protection services. After you sign up for the services, you may refreeze your credit file.

Obtaining a Free Credit Report.

Under federal law, you are entitled to one free credit report every 12 months from each of the above three major nationwide credit reporting companies. Call 1-877-322-8228 or request your free credit reports online at www.annualcreditreport.com. Once you receive your credit reports, review them for discrepancies. Identify any accounts you did not open or inquiries from creditors that you did not authorize. Verify all information is correct. If you have questions or notice incorrect information, contact the credit reporting company.

A Summary of Your Rights under the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street N.W., Washington, DC 20552.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you.
- You have the right to know what is in your file.
- You have the right to ask for a credit score.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information.
- Access to your file is limited.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers.
- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report.
- You have a right to place a “security freeze” on your credit report.
- You may seek damages from violators.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. In addition, you have the right to request that each of the three consumer reporting agencies listed below send you a free copy of your credit reports once every twelve months for your review.

Additional Helpful Resources.

Even if you do not find any suspicious activity on your initial credit reports, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) recommends that you check your credit reports periodically. Identity thieves may wait to use stolen personal information at different times. Checking your credit report periodically can help you spot problems and address them quickly.

If you find suspicious activity on your credit reports or have reason to believe your information is being misused, call your local law enforcement agency and file a police report. Be sure to obtain a copy of the police report, as many creditors will want the information it contains to absolve you of the fraudulent debts. Please also call the consumer reporting agency at the phone number on the report. Please also notify us of the suspicious activity. You may also file a complaint with the FTC by contacting them on the web at www.ftc.gov/idtheft, by phone at 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338), or by mail at Federal Trade Commission, Consumer Response Center, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20580. Your complaint will be added to the FTC’s Identity Theft Data Clearinghouse, where it will be accessible to law enforcement for their investigations. In addition, you may obtain information from the FTC about fraud alerts and security freezes.

If this notice letter states that your bank account information was impacted, we recommend that you contact your financial institution to inquire about steps to take to protect your account.
